Mr. Haver said that when Mr. Mock acquired title to the property at a mortgage foreclosure sale he found that there were back taxes due on the property totaling $400 which he has since paid the city treasurer, and that Mr. Mock believed he should receive some revenue from his newly acquired property.

Akron, O., July 7 (AP)—Scrap rubber collections are expected to be sufficient to keep the reclaiming industry at top speed for a year or more, the Beacon Journal says today. Dr. H. S. Rogers, chief of the W.P.B. rubber branch, has estimated the collection at 500,000 tons, and with the usual 20 per cent shrinkage this will leave 400,000 tons net for reclaiming, the Beacon Journal says. The rubber reclaiming industry handled 275,000 tons last year and is expected to handle 350,000 tons this year.

Stimson and Knox Salute Chinese As Comrades in Arms on Anniversary Of 1937 Attack at Peiping

Washington, July 7 (AP)—China's five-year struggle was hailed today by American armed forces everywhere with an expression of determination to drive the Japanese invaders from "every foot of Chinese soil."

In a joint order of the day read to all army and navy forces, Secretary of War Stimson and Secretary Knox of the Navy saluted the Chinese as comrades in arms and said their tenacious courage was an "inspiration for all defenders of democracy on every front."

The exceptional order was issued on the anniversary of the 1937 attack on the Marco Polo bridge near Peiping which touched off a struggle which at the moment has reached new heights of intensity.

Postmaster Kraft Gets Commission As Major in Army

Former Infantry Captain Is Given Military Leave by Postal Branch; Is in Chemical Branch

Postmaster William R. Kraft, who saw active service with the American Expeditionary Forces in France during World War I as a captain of infantry, has been commissioned a major in the Chemical Warfare Service and will report to the adjutant general's office, Washington, D. C., on July 20 for assignment to duty.

Major Kraft has obtained a military leave-of-absence from his duties as postmaster for the duration of the war and during his absence the supervision of the office will be under Acting Postmaster James A. DeLaney, who has been assistant postmaster under Postmaster Kraft.

A graduate of Virginia Military Institute, class of 1912, Major Kraft served as captain of infantry during the first World War, being adjutant of the 30th Infantry, 78th "Lightning" Division, and saw active service in France with the British at Ypres and other front positions as well as with the American forces at St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne drive where some of the bitterest fighting of the World War took place. Major Kraft saw over 13 months of active service in France and was in the service about two and a half years. His return to service as a major marks one of the first local World War officers to return to active service.

Major Kraft volunteered for service in the United States Army in any capacity on December 8, the day after Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, offering his services through the adjutant general's office. On May 15 he received orders to report to the adjutant general at Washington, D. C., for an interview and was at that time informed that his offer would be accepted provided he passed the physical requirements. A physical examination was later ordered and was taken at West Point and his commission as major was forwarded. Notification of the commission was received by Major Kraft Monday afternoon.

The entrance of Major Kraft into the U. S. Army marks the second officer in the Kraft family now in service. William R. Kraft, Jr., son of Major and Mrs. Kraft, was graduated from West Point on May 29 when he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the cavalry and assigned to Fort Kelly, Kan., where he is now undergoing intensive training.

Bomber Crews Receive Crosses for Services of Merit

London, July 7 (AP)—Major Gen. Carl Spaatz, who in 1929 made aviation history as commander of the army endurance plane, "Question Mark," has been appointed commander-in-chief of the United States army air forces in the European theatre of war, it was announced today.

As his first public act in his new post, General Spaatz today awarded distinguished flying crosses to three members of the American bomber crews who participated in the first United States air raid on Germany, held western Europe July 4.

General Spaatz himself wears both the distinguished service cross and the distinguished flying cross, the former for bringing down two German planes during the St. Mihiel offensive in the first World War and the latter for piloting the "Question Mark" to its then record continuous flight of 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds over Los Angeles in January, 1929.

The red-haired, 51-year-old commander has been in England since June, preparing the ground work for the American bombing against Germany.

A native of Boyertown, Pa., General Spaatz was in Britain in 1940 as assistant military attaché, studying German aerial tactics during the worst of the blitzkrieg.

From chief of the plans division of the air forces he was elevated to chief of the air staff and assistant to the chief of the air forces last year. He is married, the father of three daughters.

The men to whom he awarded the D.F.C. today were: Second Lieut. Randall M. Dorton, Jr., of Long Beach, Calif.; Sergeant Robert L. Golay of Fredonia, Kas., and Sergeant Bonnie B. Cunningham of Tupelo, Miss.

Captain Kegelman, of El Reno, Okla., was awarded the D.S.C. immediately following the raid on the Netherlands, having brought his badly-damaged plane home on one engine after striking the ground when hit by German gunfire.

General Spaatz, who has been assistant to the chief of the air corps, also announced that members of the two American-operated planes missing from the July 4 raid were:

Second Lieut. Frederick Loehrl of Seattle.

Second Lieut. Marshall Draper of Beverly Hills, Calif.

Nazis Cut Red Armies, While In Egypt Allies Check Rommel; U.S. Tanks Score in Libyan War

War Department Tells of Fight in Report of Battle; Were Under Major Lodge

Tanks Did Well

No Battle Casualties Occur Among U. S. Tank Forces

Washington, July 7 (AP)—A token force of American tank soldiers met and defeated German panzer units in a Libyan desert skirmish June 12 and was believed today to be engaged alongside British troops in the battle of Egypt.

The War Department announced the tank encounter in a communiqué last night. Dispatches from Cairo credited the American force with knocking out at least nine German tanks without suffering casualties itself in the battle between Knightsbridge and Acroma the day before the German ambush of the British armored force on June 13.

The Americans left their tanks at Tobruk and got out of that contested port just before the Germans went in. Cairo advices said they were to have returned to America to apply lessons learned in the desert, but because of the German advance they were ordered to stay and join in the fight to save Egypt.

The American tank crews went to Africa under command of Major Henry Cabot Lodge (Senator Lodge of Massachusetts), who returned to Washington yesterday. During his desert tour of duty, Lodge underwent machine-gun fire and dive bombing and narrowly escaped being taken prisoner.

"American crews manned American-made medium tanks in combat during a part of the battle of Libya on June 11 and 12," said the War Department communiqué: "they comprised a portion of a group of American armored force observers who have been in North Africa for several weeks."

No Battle Casualties

"The tanks operated by the Americans were under the command of Captains Charles C. Stelling of Augusta, Georgia. In two days of heavy fighting, the American crews succeeded in knocking out several German tanks. The American tanks were not repeatedly but were not seriously damaged. There

Second Child Is Dysentery Victim

Marie Elizabeth Fiore Dies in City; County Case Makes Three

The second death from dysentery in Kingston since the first of the year is that of Marie Elizabeth, three-year-old daughter of Frank and Rose DeCicco Fiore, of 31 Gill street. The child was stricken Monday and died early this morning in the Kingston Hospital. Another death was reported last month in the town of Hurley.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, who questioned the girl, said he did not care to comment on it until he was acquainted with the facts. He said that dysentery was a germ disease and was spread by contact.

The first death was that of a child earlier in the year in the downtown section of the city.

The Fiore girl is survived by her parents and two brothers, Frank, Jr., and Adam Fiore. Funeral services will be held from the family home Friday morning at 10 o'clock with burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, who questioned the girl, said he did not care to comment on it until he was acquainted with the facts. He said that dysentery was a germ disease and was spread by contact.

So far as has been announced there has not as yet been any enlistments in the county on the part of the dental profession.

Dr. Louis H. Bauer, chairman of the medical preparedness committee of the State Medical Society, stated recently that at present all physicians 37 years of age or under, throughout the state, are being urged to apply immediately for commissions, while those over 45 are not at present considered suitable military material.

Following is the list of Ulster county doctors who have enlisted in the service:

—Captain B. J. Dutto, army.

—Lieut.-Com. Joseph Jacobson, navy.

—Lieut.-Com. John B. Krom, navy.

—Captain Kenneth H. LeFever, army.

—Captain Robert F. Moseley, army. (leaves July 16).

Nazis Open Huge Drive

Germans have thrown more than 1,000,000 troops into a huge wheeling operation aimed at the Caucasus, a London military informant said. Fighting centered in the area east of Kursk (shaded), where Germans are driving at Voronezh (1), rail center, from which they could swing south (broken arrow) toward Caucasus. White arrows mark Russian counter-moves. Possibility of other German drives in Black Sea area (2) (broken arrows) also was seen.

17 Doctors Apply For Commissions In Armed Forces

To Date 10 Commissions Have Been Granted by Government, Medical Secretary Says

Seventeen out of about 30 Ulster county doctors who, according to Dr. C. L. Gannon, secretary of the Ulster County Medical Society, are considered "available" for service in the armed forces of the United States, have already volunteered their services. Ten of these have been commissioned, with six of them having entered upon their duties and two others scheduled to leave within a week.

Five doctors have taken their physical examination but have not yet been commissioned and two took physical examinations first of the week. Seven of those commissioned are from the city of Kingston.

Dr. Gannon says that there are some 78 or 79 physicians in Ulster county as a whole, including a number of women physicians, doctors whose age would preclude their taking up active service in the army or navy and others whose duties are considered so essential, because of the nature of their work, or their location that they should be called upon only in case of absolute necessity. He added that it is considered that there are about 30 doctors who might be classed as available for service, so that those who already have volunteered comprise over half the available number.

So far as has been announced there has not as yet been any enlistments in the county on the part of the dental profession.

Dr. Louis H. Bauer, chairman of the medical preparedness committee of the State Medical Society, stated recently that at present all physicians 37 years of age or under, throughout the state, are being urged to apply immediately for commissions, while those over 45 are not at present considered suitable military material.

War in Russia Takes Grave Turn With Two Red Armies Cut Apart

U. S. Tanks Help

Big American Tanks Help to Set Back Axis in Egypt

By ROGER D. GREENE (Associated Press War Editor)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies, exploiting a swift 120-mile break through, appeared to have cut direct communications between Russia's northern and southern armies in a grave turn of events in the Soviet campaign today, while in Egypt the British reported they had bent the Axis southern flank back to the west for a third successive setback.

A bulletin from British Imperial headquarters said Gen. Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck's 8th army, bolstered by fresh troops and big American tanks, "continued their pressure on the enemy, who extended his southern flank to the west."

This evidently meant that Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel had been forced to weaken his forward line, within 70 miles of the great Alexandria naval base, and build a "protecting" "extended" wall against British flying columns hacking at flanks.

"Our battle groups engaged and dispersed several small enemy columns," British headquarters said, while front-line dispatches indicated that Gen. Rommel's weary troops were refusing battle.

A German communiqué asserted tersely that "in the fight for El Alamein, several enemy counter-attacks supported by tanks failed."

On the Soviet front, Hitler's field headquarters reported, tank-led Nazi troops had captured the important city of Voronezh, on the Moscow-Rostov railroad, which is the principal rail communication between the Red armies of the north and south.

While the Germans lunged across the upper Don, a Vichy Broadcast reported that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's armies had opened a violent counter-offensive at Izyum and Kupiansk, on the southern flank of the Ukraine battlefield, and had driven the Nazis back across the Krasnaya river.

The goal of this drive would be to imperil the German flank and possibly bring about the collapse of the farthest Nazi sweep to Voronezh.

Simultaneously, the Nazi-controlled Paris radio asserted that "the Germans are advancing from Voronezh in the direction of Porovino," 140 miles east of Voronezh.

Voronezh, a city of 212,000 population, lies 10 miles east of the Don river, about half way between Moscow and Rostov.

The Paris radio said the Moscow-Rostov railway, the last major rail connection between Moscow and the Caucasus, had been cut. The line runs through Voronezh.

While the Russians gave no indication that Voronezh had fallen, Red army headquarters indicated that Gen. Heinz Guderian's Nazi tank columns, sweeping 50 miles beyond the line of their greatest 1941 advance, had fought their way across the upper Don.

Soviet dispatches said the Red armies were falling back in good order, inflicting a bloody toll on the invaders, with half a dozen battles costing the Germans 3,550 in dead alone.

Brooklyn Student Awaits Grand Jury Action in Cohen Death

S. soldier, home on furlough, was riding when he met his death about 6 o'clock Sunday night at Alligerville, was arrested Monday by Sheriff Howard Anderson, Trooper John Metzger of the B. C. I. and Deputy Sheriff Clayton Vredenburg.

He was arraigned before Justice Percy Barley of Accord on a charge of criminal negligence, in the operation of a motor vehicle resulting in death. After being brought to the court house he was released in custody of his attorney, Joseph H. Forman, by order of County Judge J. Edward Conway, for action by the grand jury, which is now in session.

'Bob' Fisher Dies

Newton, Mass., July 7 (AP)—Robert T. "Bob" Fisher, head coach of football at Harvard University during the decade following the first World War, died today at the Newton Hospital after a heart attack. Fisher, who was 53 years old, coached the only Harvard eleven ever to play in the Rose Bowl. That was in 1920, when Harvard defeated Oregon, 7 to 6. While an undergraduate, Fisher played guard on the crimson team and was twice chosen—in 1910 and 1911—a member of the late Walter Camp's All-American teams. He took over the Harvard coaching berth in 1919,

Vincent Calls Bill For Sailorettes Ridiculous Mess

Kentuckian Says Veterans Could Fill Non-Combat Shore Jobs, Women Belong in Homes

Washington, July 7 (AP)—Storm clouds loomed in the offing for Uncle Sam's prospective sailorettes today even before their organization was officially launched. As Chairman Vincent (D.-Ky.) of the House naval affairs committee disclosed he would seek congressional approval of legislation creating a women's naval reserve, a fellow-committeeman, Representtative Vincent (D.-Ky.), announced he would object to consideration of the measure.

"The whole mess is ridiculous," said Vincent, who hails from a western Kentucky district where, he asserted, the men folk do the fighting and the women take care of the homes.

Already passed by the House, a bill creating the reserve was amended substantially by the Senate and, unless Vincent withdraws his opposition, will be forced into conference to iron out the differences.

Vincent contended at a committee meeting yesterday that there was no need for the projected force of 10,000 enlisted women and 1,000 women naval officers to take over non-combat shore duty.

The Kentuckian said the jobs could be filled by World War veterans who want to do something for their country and who are better qualified. These men, he commented, know more about matters of war than the girls, many of whom are experienced primarily in "putting on lipstick and looking in a mirror."

British to Spend $4 Millions on Propaganda

London, July 7 (AP)—Great Britain will spend about $4,400,000 on propaganda at home and abroad during the current fiscal year, Ernest Thurtle, parliamentary secretary for the ministry of information, told the House of Commons today.

This figure represents an increase of $9,740,000 over last year, he said.

Opening debate on British propaganda which has aroused some critics because of alleged inefficiency and others because of suspected leftist tendencies, Thurtle said $16,000,000 of the ministry's budget was spent on publicity services, more than half of this for overseas propaganda.

The secretary said that postal and telegraph censorship, for which $12,000,000 was being spent annually, was now closely coordinated with that of the United States. This censorship, he said, has played "a notable part in dealing with activities of enemy agents both in the United States and Central America."

Living costs in the Nazi-occupied Netherlands are reported to have risen at least 60 per cent while wages have decreased over 20 per cent since the war began.

The commission will devote the next few weeks to development of procedure and consideration of fields for special attention. Under the law the commission has three main functions: (1) to determine what expenditures may be reduced without impairment of necessary functions of government; (2) recommendation of changes in laws where such changes may be necessary to put economies into effect and (3) preparation of a system of priorities in state spending with high ratings for functions found to be essential and curtailment or elimination of those which the commission finds are non-essential "in view of the national war emergency."

"Our work is closely tied in with the war and it is just as important that we make every week count here as in production of planes, ships and guns. Members of the commission are fully aware of the perils of 'too little and too late,'" Senator Wickes commented.

Professor Harley L. Lutz of Princeton University, one of the foremost tax authorities in the country, has been engaged to handle the research activities of the commission. Former state Senator Walter W. Westall of White Plains is counsel to the commission.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

See?
New York — When the navy asked patriotic Americans to lend it certain types of binoculars for the duration, it meant binoculars—and not lorgnettes.

Lorgnettes, toy opera glasses and seeing aids other than the specified binoculars are of little use to officers on the decks of bucking destroyers, the office of war information points out, saying the navy had been forced to return thousands of these to misinformed donors.

Educated Yeggs

Denver — A clerk in George Green's grocery store scrawled "beans" on a scrap of paper and left it on the cash register so his boss would know where to find the day's receipts.

The boss couldn't find the $303 in the pile of beans next morning. Burglars had been there. They could read, too.

All Out to Win

Augusta, Mont. — This little town—or what's left of it—reads all war news eagerly.

It has sent 85 men, more than a fifth of its 1940 population, into the armed forces.

Uncanny

Iberia, Mo. — Henry Shackelford spread salt for his cattle to eat, then was puzzled to see them ignore it—while his hogs devoured it eagerly.

There'd been an error. He'd used the family's entire supply of canning sugar.

A Slight Delay

Quincy, Calif. — Charles Hall, mining alone far up the Feather river since October 12, came back to town and made a startling discovery.

America is at war, his draft board informed him.

The Production Battle

Denver — Iuka Roxan, who is a Holstein, never heard of rationing.

She produced 7,826 quarts of milk and 554 pounds of butterfat in the last 12 months under supervision of the Colorado State College and the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Nature's Trick

Aurora, Neb. — Frank Edger-ton was mystified when he received a $26 electric bill for the pump at one of his large irrigation units because he thought it had not been running since last August.

Investigation showed a lightning bolt had fused two wires together, starting the pump which filled a small lake nearby to overflowing.

Home Justice

Des Moines, Ia. — Municipal Judge Charles S. Cooter, who promised to impound bicycles of "double riders" as part of a personal safety campaign, told his first customer "I'm going to fine you $5 or have your bike locked up for 15 days."

"I can't pay it," the boy said. "Where's your bicycle?" the judge asked.

"Dad's got it. He locked it up after I got the ticket and said I couldn't have it for a couple of weeks," the boy replied.

"Looks like he beat me to it," commented the judge.

BEARSVILLE

Bearsville, July 7 — Mrs. Joseph Elliott and son of Albany are spending a week with Mrs. Ray Shultis.

Mrs. Catherine Kenn entertained relatives from New York over the week-end.

Miss Louise Shultis is spending some time with relatives in Waterbury, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shultis and Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Shultis attended the graduation exercises at Town Hall in Woodstock last Saturday evening. Their niece, Miss Jean Shultis was one of the graduates.

Several from here attended the funeral of Augustus Barclay on Thursday at the Lasher Funeral Home in Woodstock.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Kinns of Hudson upon the birth of a daughter, Carolyn Ruth, June 18. Mrs. Kinns was formerly Miss Ruth Shultis.

The Woman's Society for Christian Service of the Woodstock Methodist Church will hold its monthly meeting at the church hall, Tuesday afternoon, July 7.

Mrs. Victor Shultis and children, Vernon and Howard, spent the past week-end with her mother in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivanoff are the parents of a daughter, Jiatiana Augusta.

Victor Shultis is busy hauling white birch logs from Prattville to the Kasser Umbrella Handle Works, Inc., at Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Shultis spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Short in Wittenberg.

Miss Olive Shultis has employment in Woodstock.

Albert Phillips of Hackensack, N. J., spent last Sunday with his wife.

Mrs. Arthur Shultis called on Mrs. F. G. Shultis one evening this week.

Women Co-Eds Curbed

Women attending technical colleges or universities in Britain who are subject to compulsory wartime service cannot continue their studies beyond the end of the academic year in which they become 20 years old, it is announced in London. Those not over 19 years and six months old as of October 1, 1942, may enter a university this fall for two years. Students of medicine, dentistry and veterinary surgery now enrolled may complete the full course if their progress and conduct are satisfactory.

Schools to Teach Special Courses In Aeronautics

Albany, July 7 — Teachers in secondary schools and teachers colleges who will teach pre-flight aeronautics or other aviation courses in the fall of 1942 are eligible to enroll in summer civilian pilot training ground school courses with tuition paid by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, according to word received today by the New York State Education Department. The ground school courses will be offered by a number of New York state colleges and universities this summer.

Carrying out the provisions of a law enacted by the 1942 legislature, the State Education Department is organizing a program of pre-flight training and junior aviation courses for the public secondary schools of the state. The legislature appropriated $150,000 for the development of this program to prepare boys for military and civilian aviation vocations. The tuition-free courses will enable teachers to prepare for instruction in this national air-conditioning program.

Teachers may obtain full information regarding applications for such free courses from Dr. Lewis A. Wilson, deputy commissioner of education, State Education Department, Albany.

The following New York state colleges and universities will offer elementary ground school courses: Canisius College, Buffalo; Colgate University, Hamilton; Cornell University, Ithaca; Hamilton College, Clinton; St. Bonaventure College, St. Bonaventure; Rochester Business Institute, Rochester.

St. Lawrence University, Canton; State Teachers College, Potsdam; Syracuse University, Syracuse; University of Buffalo, Buffalo; University of Rochester, Rochester.

Secondary ground school courses will be offered at: Colgate University, Hamilton; Hamilton College, Clinton; University of Rochester, Rochester.

W. P. A. Reduction to Be Completed This Week

Steps to reduce upstate New York W. P. A. rolls to a maximum of 11,200 project employees, as ordered by the Washington W. P. A. office to keep within limits of the 1943 Federal Work Relief Appropriation, are under way and will be completed by the end of this week, Deputy State W. P. A. Administrator Clarence W. Post said today. The rolls must be further reduced to 9,200 by August 1st, Post added.

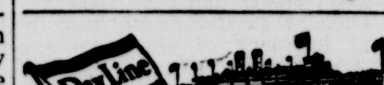

Immediate termination of employment for approximately 3,500 persons from W. P. A. white collar and construction projects has been necessary to comply with the Washington directive, Post said. Projects suspended will be of the non-war type, he said.

Administrative and supervisory employment have been reduced 50 per cent in the upstate W. P. A. administration, Post revealed, with many of the smaller units closed down and the work absorbed by the greatly curtailed State headquarters staff.

The W. P. A. division of training and re-employment is still finding jobs for W. P. A. workers in the war industries, Post said, and some former administrative and supervisory employees have been placed with other governmental agencies.

The upstate W. P. A. reached a peak employment of 140,000 during early 1936, Post stated, and more than 300,000 different persons earned pay checks at some time or another during the past seven years of the Federal work relief program.

Keep our boys tiptop by putting the U. S. O. drive over the top.

Army to Induct Men With Minor Physical Defects

A modification of the physical standards, to permit induction in the Army of men now in Class 1-B due to minor physical defects, will become effective on August 1, 1942, and will result in the induction of a regular quota of men in this category for limited military service, the War Department announced today.

By calling each month a number of men who are physically capable of performing limited military service, and assigning them to duty with Corps Area Service Commands and the War Department Overhead, it will be possible to release an almost equal number of fully qualified soldiers for duty with task forces. Induction, under the new standards, will be limited to those with minor physical defects who are able to bring to the Army a useful vocation which was followed in civil life.

Among those now classified 1-B who will be eligible for duty under the limited service status are the following:

Individuals whose weight and chest circumference are under or over the standard set for 1-A registrants, but who are otherwise mentally and physically fit, and who do not fall within Class 4.

Those who have a minimum vision of 20-400 in one or both eyes without glasses, if correctable with glasses to 20-40 in either eye. The loss of one eye, providing such loss was not due to organic change, will not result in the disqualification of an individual, provided the other eye has 20-200 vision correctable to 20-40 or better.

Men whose hearing in one or both ears is not less than 5-20. Complete deafness in one ear will not result in disqualification, provided the hearing is 10-20 or better in the other ear; nor will the loss of both external ears, provided the individual has followed a useful vocation in civil life.

Those who had insufficient teeth to qualify for Class 1-A, provided the defect is correctable by artificial dentures, and there are no evidences of extensive areas of infection or other disease of the jaws, the correction of which would require protracted treatment.

Individuals with a lateral deviation of the spine from the normal midline of less than three inches.

Men who have lost an entire thumb on either hand; or those who have lost three entire fingers, provided the thumb remains.

Those who have lost the great toe, lost the dorsal flexion of the great toe, have a hammer toe or have webbed toes, provided these or other defects do not prevent them from wearing a military shoe, and have not prevented them from following a useful vocation in civil life.

Individuals who have been able to follow a useful vocation in civil life despite moderate deformities of one or both upper extremities, one or both lower extremities, or moderate deformities of the clavicle, ribs or scapula.

REFRIGERATORS HAVE SPROUTED

WINGS!

The aluminum, copper and steel from which electric refrigerators were once made have gone to war—the skilled hands which once made them are doing other things.

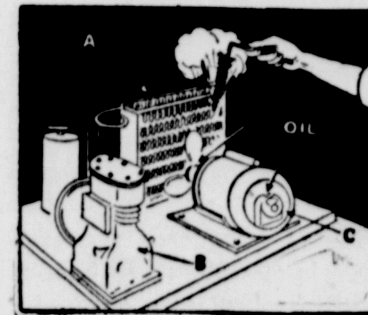

That's where refrigerators have gone . . . to the skies over Cologne and Chekiang, Tokyo and Taranto!

THAT'S WHY YOU SHOULD TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR REFRIGERATOR!

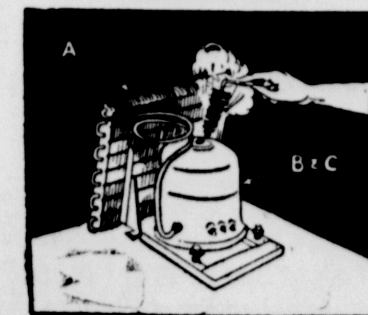

Until this war is over no new ones will be built. But, then, your refrigerator is one of the most rugged household appliances you have. With a little ordinary care it should give you satisfactory service for many years. Here are a few hints as to its care:

- Keep the motor properly oiled (if it is one of the older type with an "open unit". See sketch)
- Defrost at least once a week in hot weather.
- Remove dust and lint from the condenser by occasionally passing a stiff brush over the face of the cooling fins as shown in the sketches below.
- Don't pack food compartments too full. Leave enough space around the edges of the shelves to permit free air circulation.
- Don't slam the door.
- Keep your refrigerator clean both inside and out. Wipe up spilled foods immediately.

OBSERVATION POST

There are many local citizens enrolled in special civilian war work, but there is still plenty of room for other people to do something in this great task.

Those who have not yet found their places in the branches of the civilian defense system may do so at once by volunteering their services in the local Aircraft Warning Service. There are 200 needed to complete the organization and men and women are eligible for service. The observation post is atop the Hotel Stuyvesant and there is elevator service to the post. Volunteers, who will spend two hours of each week, may select the time best suited to their convenience. Registrations may be made at the Legion Building, West O'Reilly street, from 7 to 9 o'clock tonight, Wednesday and Thursday.

The army authorities declare that the need for the vital Aircraft Warning Service was recognized many months ago when the first observation post was formed. Since then it has become increasingly evident that this system needs the close supervision which the present organization is intended to give.

New centers are still being organized, new posts put in order. Now, over the United States there are hundreds of thousands of observers taking their turn at one of the most unglamorous but most important duties of the civilian in all our war.

Observer identification cards are issued to all volunteers.

Complete information as to the duties of an observer may be had at the Legion building, where it is anticipated that enough patriotic citizens will enroll to make the service here effective.

PAPER IS A FIRE HAZARD

The War Production Board recently reported that its "Salvage for Victory" program met with so great a public response that there is now a surplus of waste paper, and no need now for further collections, except in a few certain territories. As a result, it is likely that paper already collected may be stored for some time. Unless certain rules are carefully followed, storage of paper will create a grave fire hazard.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has issued a simple set of commonsense rules, which should be rigorously observed in handling waste paper now and in the future. The paper should be in tightly tied bundles and whenever available a bailing machine should be used. When paper is sorted and handled, there should be no smoking. Churches, schools, club houses and other public or semi-public buildings should not be used for prolonged storage. When the paper is stored, suitable aisles should be maintained between piles. Care must be taken to see that the windows are not blocked, that the paper is not piled directly against walls and that it is not scattered loosely about. The storage place should be periodically inspected by a fireman or some other expert.

In the home, similar safeguards are essential. If the paper is stored in the basement, it should either be kept in a covered box or tied in bundles not over eighteen inches high. Bundles should not be stacked on top of each other, and storage must be well away from furnaces or stoves. Matches should never be struck near the paper.

The observance of such rules as these will go a long way toward eliminating the danger of fire. Safety lies in understanding the hazards—and then taking the definite steps that will offset them.

TWO HOLIDAYS

Canada may be said to have her Independence Day, like the United States. It is called Dominion Day (July 1) and comes so close to the American Fourth that the holidays almost join hands. The main difference is merely that American thoughts are turned to Washington and Canadian thoughts to London.

A day may come when the festivals are really joined, although there is no reason to expect an actual merger of the two countries. It is enough that Canada, while bound to Britain and the Empire by strong racial and institutional bonds, steadily strengthens her cooperation with the United States. This country has no better friend among the nations, although latterly Mexico seems to be vying with Canada for that distinction.

Uncle Sam is fortunate to be flanked on the north and south by two such neighbors, making, along with the Central American nations, a great solid, continental block of free and like-minded states.

FIRST THINGS FIRST

Louis Bromfield, miracle man who has succeeded both as a novelist and a farmer, adds his bit to the plans for a new world. In an interview he says:

"After this war we shall not only have to feed the defeated and stricken peoples, but fight to construct the world along the right lines. We shall have great responsibilities to meet, and we won't be defeated this time by a bunch of blind and selfish old men such as defeated the League of Nations.

"It will be in our hands to make the new world as great as we have made this country. We shall have a new sense of values. We shall learn that we get out of life, or the world, only what we put into it."

Americans want to believe that, although some are less hopeful than others about the wisdom this nation is going to have, and use, after it has licked all the killers and burglars now bedeviling civilization. But there is one little detail that many of the planners and prophets with their heads in the clouds seem to be overlooking. That is the need of licking the enemy first. It is hard, for most people, to win a war and build a Utopia at the same time.

HITLER'S WORD

As Hitler's armies battle at the gates of Sevastopol, it is worth while to recall his solemn word, uttered at the making of the treaty with Russia in 1939: "I should like here to declare that this political decision means a tremendous departure for the future, and that it is a final one. Russia and Germany fought against each other in the World War. That shall and will not happen a second time."

Several states are providing stiffer penalties for tire thefts, confirming the idea that such culprits will yet be hanged like frontier horse thieves.

It used to be said that other nations could live on what Americans throw away, and the recent collections seem to prove it.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

SOIL PREVENTS TOOTH DECAY

There is no question but that good dental powders and creams and vigorous rubbing of the gums and teeth have much to do with preserving the outside of the teeth. And while I do not agree with the statement that if you save the surface (of the teeth) you save all, I believe all time and effort spent in keeping the outside of the teeth clean is a good investment.

However, teeth are not just pieces of bony tissue but grow and have a circulation of blood the same as other tissues. And what is carried to the internal structure of the teeth is important not only from the standpoint of the structure of the teeth but also in the prevention of decay of the teeth.

Fortunately the dental profession is always seeking ways of preserving the teeth and gums not only for their usefulness for digestion but in the prevention of general or systemic diseases in the body.

Noticing that the children in a certain county in Texas seemed to have better teeth, fewer cases of decayed, missing and filled teeth than the average, the Director of Dental Health, Texas State Department of Health, Dr. Edward Taylor, investigated the condition of the children of this county (Deaf Smith County) and a report of this investigation appeared in the Journal of the American Dental Association.

The investigation showed that the drinking water of the county was rich in fluoride and calcium. It was found also that the people there grow an exceptionally high percentage of their foods. "With their irrigation and their new soil, a large variety of vegetables and truck produce are grown and over a longer period of the year when irrigation is absent. Most of the homes produce adequate dairy products, poultry products and meats."

Chemical examination of these foods showed they were extremely rich in calcium and phosphorus and further studies are being made to get the values in fluorides and vitamins all so vital to the prevention of tooth decay.

We cannot all live in this particular Texas county but it brings home again the facts brought out by those missionary dentists Drs. Azenow who proved that vegetables and dairy products prevent tooth decay.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Some of the most prominent men in the city have at various times been members of the city's education board, and that is undoubtedly one of the reasons why the city's education system works so successfully. One member whom I recall as very active on the board during the years he served as a commissioner is Fred J. Walter of Spring street.

Mr. Walter for many years has been secretary of the C. Hiltbrand Dry Dock Co., at Connelly, but he has also found time to devote himself to civic affairs. He is now president of the Home-Seekers Co-Operative Savings and Loan Association, and for years has been an active member of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer.

Mr. Walter's son, Ray Walter, is a former member of the editorial staff of The Freeman, and for a number of years has been on the staff of one of the leading Poughkeepsie newspapers. I recall the years when Ray Walter as a young man, was active in amateur minstrels, appearing in the old Y. M. C. A. shows and also the shows put on at the Wurts street church.

The other day I wrote a sketch of some of the men who drove the coal trucks in Kingston before the big auto trucks made their appearance on the city's streets.

I also recall the days when Cort Smith, who lived on Rogers street, at Broadway, drove the horse-drawn delivery truck of the late Albert Mutterstock who had a woodworking plant on Upper Broadway, near the present Orpheum Theatre. Mr. Mutterstock was also a contractor and builder, and was engaged in business for many years before his death.

I also recall Henry F. Meyer, who now lives on Van Gaasbeck street. Mr. Meyer for years drove the horse and truck of the J. T. Johnson hardware store on the Strand, and when the horse was retired to make way for an auto delivery truck, Mr. Meyer learned how to operate the auto truck, and for years continued to drive it throughout the city until the hardware store was closed shortly after the death of Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson before his death had been engaged in the hardware business for many years. I recall business for many years. I recall that he also opened a branch store on central Broadway, near Henry street, which was in charge of Wesley Waterbury. As I recall it, Mr. Waterbury after retiring from the hardware business opened a coal yard on Foxhall avenue which he conducted for some years.

Six-week-old Yvonne Moy and her six-month-old aunt, Rita Moy, were christened together at All Saints Church in New Eltham, En. land, in the presence of her grandfather, aged 42, and grandmother, 43.

All Employers, Even Though Not Directing War Work, Must Abide by Decisions of War Labor Board

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 7—Almost unnoticed, an executive agency which was never created by act of congress, and which derives its power only from the decrees of the President, decided it had jurisdiction over all employers in America irrespective of whether or not they are engaged in war work.

Inasmuch as the National War Labor Board has assumed powers of compulsory arbitration over employers who have war contracts and the President has backed up the board in this usurpation of power never granted by congress, the extension of the board's authority to include all businesses means that all employers, even though not engaged in war work, must accept the decisions of the board.

The importance of this step is not merely related to employers. It may mean a virtual scuttling of the Wagner law, which created a separate board, known as the National Labor Relations Board, to deal with disputes in industry generally.

But the N.L.R.B. never had any power of compulsory arbitration. It never even had powers of mediation or conciliation. Labor unions generally have applauded the Wagner law and supported the N.L.R.B. against attacks on the ground that the law for the first time legalizes collective bargaining and does control it. The latter assumption arises from the fact that labor unions are apparently maneuvering to bring all kinds of disputes before the National War Labor Board rather than before the National Labor Relations Board.

Now it develops that the N.L.R.B. either isn't doing its job—which is a wrong assumption—or that it is doing its job too well, which means that labor unions are beginning to undermine it because they cannot control it. The latter assumption arises from the fact that labor unions are apparently maneuvering to bring all kinds of disputes before the National War Labor Board rather than before the National Labor Relations Board.

Strictly speaking, there ought not be any conflict between these two boards as each has separate functions—and, besides, the N.L.R.B. has behind it a specific statute of congress. Yet there are labor unions which insist that they must exercise their right to strike even in war time and even against employers engaged in war production because the latter allegedly are refusing to bargain in good faith with their employee organizations.

It had been supposed that the N.L.R.B. would take care of such things and apply the proper penalties against violators of the Wagner law. Resolutions adopted by the American Federation of Labor's central labor union organizing committee at Omaha, Nebraska, recently have been sent to all national and international unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. in Nebraska and to President Green of the A. F. of L.

These resolutions set forth that "powerful anti-union employers whose employees have been organized into A. F. of L. unions in spite of most vicious opposition, prove conclusively by their actions that they intend to take every possible unfair advantage of the protection of the national defense program" and that these employers "refuse to bargain fairly and in good faith with the union chosen by their employees and persist in defying the rights of organized labor by definitely refusing to give just consideration to the workers involved."

It is precisely the foregoing type of charge which the sponsors of the Wagner law said would be cured by the enforcement of that statute. Here, however, labor unions in the midst of war are threatening a strike and thus will get their cases before the National War Labor Board instead of the National Labor Relations Board. Presumably the latter process takes longer and besides the strike weapon or the threat of a strike is a powerful instrument of campaigning for members or the maintenance of memberships in unions. The National War Labor Board has shown its readiness to take up almost any kind of dispute and usually it has settled the matter in favor of the employees. Hence labor union leaders in many instances are doubtless beginning to feel that they can even bring charges of refusal to bargain before the war labor board and force increases in wages and thus enhance their position.

If the President took a firm position behind the N.L.R.B. and insisted that its machinery be used before any strikes are permitted he would take a long step toward relieving the war labor board and preventing work stoppages during the war emergency.

"CITY LAWYER," by Arthur Garfield Hays

Arthur Garfield Hays has led a double life in the law for so long that it no longer seems strange to him. Yet it is one of the most amazing careers any lawyer can produce.

Hays is a Wall Street lawyer with his right hand, and the defender of civil liberties with his left. It is an odd combination to anyone who knows the timidity of the financial mind. But in Hays' case it comes right out of his youth, as described in "City Lawyer." As a boy in Rochester, N. Y., where his people were well-to-do Jewish clothing manufacturers, Arthur did just about what he wanted to do. It became a habit.

"City Lawyer" is mostly about the left-hand cases. These have a stupefying range. It is not surprising to find him mixed up with Clarence Darrow on the liberal trial of the Scopes trial in Dayton, Tenn., justly baiting the late William Jennings Bryan. But an American lawyer sitting in on the Reichstag fire trial is surprising—and Hays did just that.

He was among those fighters for liberalism who invaded the Kentucky mining highlands, and he was concerned in the Sacco and Vanzetti martyrdom. This last brought him a sum of $30,000 from Ellen Hayes to be used in the defense of civil liberty after the death of that embattled schoolmarm. A second source of cash for the underdog was the Garland Fund—$800,000 in First National Bank stock left to a Pennsylvania farmer named Garland who refused to use it, but established a trust for its expenditure in labor, liberal and radical causes. According to Mr. Hays George F. Baker was not pleased that his bank contributed thus.

There is much about the Wendell will case in the book about the progressive movement in politics early in the 'twenties, about Tommy Jordan and his escape from the electric chair. There is much more about other famous cases, and a long chapter on some not so famous, but equally interesting, called "Suicide and Death."

What distinguishes the book is not its list of famous or great names, however, but the way in which it expresses that "split" personality of the author, Mr. Hays has made a career out of unorthodoxy.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Among the heroes of this war, give a thought to the scientists in the Department of Agriculture.

In peacetime, they lead a comparatively simple life. They try to make something out of what we have too much of, and improve production of what we don't have enough of.

Multiply those problems by 1,000 and you'll have what they are up against today.

Under censorship, I can't mention names or processes. Either would give the saboteurs an inkling of where to start. But none of the story can be told now.

Some of these days very soon, for example, we may have a cotton-filled "sandbag"; cotton plasters for blackout shades; turpentine smoke screens; rosin gas masks for animals.

Staple cotton (instead of lint) soon may be used for smokeless powder in big guns, for anti-aircraft shells and even rifles.

Forestry projects soon may be used in place of aluminum for planes; wood cellulose in explosives; charcoal in gas masks; fire resistant woods in hundreds of war materials and as substitutes for raw cork.

Any time now there may be a brand-new canning material, something previously undreamed of.

New insecticides (to replace those imported) may be on the way.

Hitler's Drive Now Becomes Matter Of Grave Concern for Caucasus

keep Hitler out of the Caucasus and the middle east for which he is striving.

The Hitlerian strategy is plain enough. His offensive is calculated to sever Russia's communications with the Caucasus, thereby cutting the Red off from vital oil and food supplies, and to swing a great army across the entrance to the Caucasian isthmus, ready for an assault southward to the oil fields and the middle east.

Berlin already claims the capture of the city of Voronezh, an important railway junction near the upper Don. If this is true it would sever the last main line between Moscow and Rostov—a hard blow to the Russians. The Nazi chief also must envisage the capture of the big industrial city of Stalingrad on the Volga (use your maps please) and Astrakhan, which lies near the mouth of the Volga on the Caspian Sea.

You will note that should fortune favor him to that extent he then would be holding a line right across the top of the isthmus running between the Black and Caspian seas. But there his trouble would be only well under way, for in order to drive down through this isthmus he must force the lofty Caucasus mountain range, which is one of the most formidable military barriers in the world. And south of those peaks he presumably would come up against American and British forces.

Well, it doesn't seem necessary to carry the fuhrer any farther at the moment along the road to the golden oil on which he hopes to float to glory. There's another aspect of this situation which often is overlooked, and this is that the northern Caucasus for which Hitler is headed represents one of Russia's principal food sources.

Dr. Lazar Volin, specialist on eastern Europe for the United States Agricultural Department, has described this area as "one of the richest agricultural regions of the Soviet Union, nearly equal in size to Iowa and Nebraska combined." He has said that the North Caucasus includes about one fourth of the Russian winter wheat acreage, one fifth of the total Russian barley acreage, 40 per cent of the small Russian corn acreage, as well as tobacco, cotton and oilseeds.

Loss of this vast food center would create a grave problem for the Soviet, especially in view of the occupation of the Ukraine, long-known as Russia's breadbasket. As long ago as last September when the Germans had overrun much of the Ukraine and were driving against the Crimea, Dr. Volin suggested that the United States might have to provide food for Russia. Loss of the upper Caucasus naturally would increase the needs.

So far as concerns the Nazi all highest, while he might deprive the Russians of food, he is likely to gain little for his own cupboard in the immediate future. The fruitful Ukraine, which now should be green with waving grain, is dead and black from the Russian scorched-earth policy, and presumably similar tactics will be applied wherever the hob-nails of German soldiery tread.

Two Women Hurt In 9-W Accident

Auto Hits Big Signboard on Longacre Barn

Mrs. Theresa Marz, 57, who lives just north of the Lake Katrine turn-off on Route 9-W and Mrs. Elva Ross, 53 of 2685 University Avenue, the Bronx, were seriously injured when the Chevrolet coach in which they were riding, driven by Mrs. Marz, crashed into a large signboard affixed to a barn on the Longacre property about 2:15 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The injured women were taken to the Benedictine Hospital by Conner's ambulance. Mrs. Marz was reported to be suffering from three fractured ribs, concussion of the brain and lacerations of the face and left knee. Mrs. Ross sustained possible injury to the liver, possible fracture of the skull, lacerations of the face and right arm.

Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe, who investigated the accident, found that Mrs. Marz was driving south on 9-W when about half a mile from the Marz home the car left the highway on the west side of the road, went through the field for a distance of some 90 feet and then crashed head-on into the large billboard. The two women were pinned down in the car and it was with difficulty that Trooper Keefe and the two ambulance attendants were able to extricate them. The entire front of the car was badly smashed.

Neither Mrs. Marz or Mrs. Ross were in a condition to be questioned following the accident and there was no explanation as to what caused the car to leave the road, which is practically straight at that point.

WE cheered their heroism, their daring, their never-say-die spirit at Wake Island, for example.

Over and over in conversation, editorials, speeches, and every other form of verbal bouquet we told them how fine we thought they were. And how solidly we stood behind them.

But now comes the time when we've got to tell all that to the Marines and the Army and Navy in something more substantial than mere words.

Demonstration—not conversation—is called for now!

We've got to increase and maintain the club-houses which the men can use on their time off. 432 are already operating now. But that's not nearly enough.

We've got to help keep up their spirit by keeping boredom and monotony out of their lives. A fighter needs entertainment for his mind as well as guns for his hands, uniforms for his back, food for his stomach.

The American's Creed

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union; one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies." — THE AMERICAN'S CREED.

Experienced Workman—Go on with that juvenile stuff! I knew you when you were nothing but a worried look on your father's face.

Winmill—Have you heard that the government, under this new bill, is likely to take over everything in the way of excess profits?

Skimmer—What are excess profits?

Winmill—Getting more than you earn.

Skimmer—Oh, oh, there goes my salary.

Doctor—You should take a bath before you retire.

Patient—But, doctor, I don't expect to retire for another 20 years.

And speaking of doctors, we read the other day of a physician who named his country home Bedside Manor.

Grand Jurors Discuss Their Annual Picnic

At a regular meeting of the Grand Jurors Association of Ulster County, held at the court house Monday night, the matter of holding the annual picnic in August, on the Wilkins farm at Walker Valley, came up for discussion.

Secretary Macholdt read a letter from Mr. Wilkins, not yet returned from Florida, in which he assured the members that they were assured of a hearty welcome if they decided to meet at his place for the annual outing—provided "they could get there."

There seemed to be unanimous agreement that these yearly affairs had been all that could be wished for, but the big question was whether tire and gas rationing would result in keeping members and their families from attending.

It finally was decided to name a committee to ascertain what attendance might be expected and have charge of arrangements. President Van Tassel named as a committee the members who have been in charge of the picnic in recent years, Henry Macholdt, Thomas J. Murphy, Albert Wilkins and Edmund Zeidler.

District Attorney N. LeVan Haver was present at the meeting and discussed with the members possible improvements that might be made in the grand jury system, particularly with reference to selecting the best possible material for this very important duty.

Two Spies Executed in British Prison

London, July 7 (AP)—Two enemy spies—one of them a British subject—were executed today in Wandsworth prison.

The Briton was Jose Estella Key and the other, a Belgian national, was Alphonse Timmerman.

They were convicted under the Treachery Act. All proceedings were secret.

Timmerman, a 38-year-old ship's steward, entered this country last autumn as a refugee but, said the announcement, "his real mission as a spy was detected before he could do any mischief."

It said he ultimately confessed that he had been sent to Britain by the German secret service to try to learn naval and military secrets.

Gibraltar-born Key, 33, operated at the British "rock," gathering information for the enemy on movements of British land and sea forces by way of the western Mediterranean fortress.

Moses Objects to Plan To Curtain Coney Lights

New York, July 7 (AP)—It looks like curtains for Coney Island's chance for a mile-long second curtain.

Boardwalk concessionaires at Atlantic City, N. J., and Long Beach, N. Y., got around the dim-out regulations by erecting a screen on the beach, and Coney sought to follow suit.

But Park Commissioner Robert Moses, knowing New York's habits, rejected Coney's plan, tending, among other things, that such a curtain soon would be decorated with "art and literature."

Promoters of the plan have appealed to Mayor F. L. LaGuardia, who's considering it, after a fashion.

Nazism and Nietzsche's Distorted Idealism

Comparing the superman theory of Hitler with that of Nietzsche, Germany's famous philosopher, Dr. Donald A. Platt discloses various influences behind the Nazi movement and the strangely distorted idealism of Friedrich Nietzsche.

Professor of philosophy at the Los Angeles campus of the University of California, Dr. Platt says that Nietzsche saw everywhere decadence and defeat. He wanted men to become gods. This was the task of science and philosophy. He called the Germans smug and slave-souled. "Shame on the ignoble happiness that is the dream of grocery clerks, Christians, cows, women, Englishmen, and all democrats," wrote Nietzsche in "Twilight of the Gods."

Fascism arose in Germany, states Dr. Platt, through two groups: "a small bourgeois class, disgruntled, envious, wanting more power and wealth, and soldiers returning from the First World War, finding it difficult to secure employment, not wanting to work, wanting to fight."

Hitler, as the leader, promised fulfillment of these aims, though both aims were despised by Nietzsche, whose Superman was neither industrialist nor militarist.

Here's what the cooks have in mind for Sunday dinner, July 26:

Fried chicken, snowflake potatoes, giblet gravy, whole kernel corn, sliced tomatoes, toffee ice cream, wafers, orangeade and coffee.

The Sunday night lunch will be built around tuna fish salad and assorted sandwiches, with spiced beefs, fruit gelatine, cupcakes, lemonade and coffee.

Wednesday night, July 29, would be a poor night to date a W.A.A.C. if she could get out (which she cannot). That evening's menu includes onions.

Budget Might Pass

It is expected that the budget prepared by the Board of Education will be adopted by the Common Council at the regular monthly meeting this evening at the city hall. The budget fixes the tax rate at $9.28 per thousand valuation, or 38 cents less than last year's tax rate.

Crushed Frozen Fruit Requires Canning Care

Crushed frozen fruit, a comparatively new product now gaining favor, are to please consumers, the packers find they must exercise scrupulous care to prevent undesirable flavors and odors from metal equipment and containers.

Chemists of the Western Regional Research laboratory of the U. S. department of agriculture say that metals containing iron, zinc and copper are particularly bad.

Fruit acids dissolve iron, which combines with fruit tannins in astringent fruits, affecting the color. Zinc or galvanized metals dissolved by fruit acids are somewhat toxic and give an astringent taste to the product.

Tin cans are used for packaging most frozen crushed fruit, but the cans should be lined with enamel or lacquer. This is especially necessary for red-colored fruits and those containing tannin.

Freezing fresh fruits in an atmosphere of inert gas such as carbon dioxide or nitrogen or under conditions which exclude air, does not affect the flavor.

Queen's Visit Renews Importance

The springs at Bath, England, were the center of a Roman resort city developed during the first four centuries A. D. This was ruined by the Saxons in 577 A. D. and for 1,200 years the city existed quietly, developing some reputation for cloth-making. A visit to the springs by Queen Anne in 1703, touched off their new popularity that reached great heights midway in the seventeenth century.

There were severe growing pains attached to new popularity, until Richard ("Beau") Nash was appointed master of ceremonies at the spa and instituted needed regulations into the frivolous life of the city. Swords were banned. Services at the famous Abbey cathedral became a prelude to an evening at gaming tables. Growth of the city followed the

MAY A BRIDE BE GIVEN MORE THAN ONE SHOWER?

A reader who is evidently much upset, asks whether it could ever be proper to give more than one shower for the same bride: "One young bride," she tells me, "is having five showers given for her. What is your opinion of this?"

My opinion of this depends upon how many different groups of friends she happens to have. To ask people to take several presents to the same girl is not considered fair at all. But if a girl—as may easily happen—belongs to several different groups—a musical one, a business one, a social one, her own family one, and one of the bridegroom's family—this might make five perfectly legitimate showers given her by quite different groups. If one unusual person were asked to all five it should not be expected that she go to them all, still less take five presents.

The Use of a Nickname

Dear Mrs. Post: Not long ago when an account of the wedding of two well-known young people here in town was written in the newspaper, the best man's name was given this way: "John (Sandy) Gregor." This man is a noted athlete, known to his public as Sandy Gregor. We were wondering whether it was good form to include his nickname this way in a social column?

Answer: In a friendly type of social column it would be quite all right. But if the writer would have had to be so formal that all names were given with titles he should have called him Mr. John Gregor, and nothing further.

Acknowledgment of Sad News
Dear Mrs. Post: Should a wife be answered that tells of a death and funeral arrangements?

Answer: Since the fact that you were sent a telegram indicates that you are a member of the family or else a very intimate friend, you should either telegraph or write a note of sympathy or send flowers—or perhaps you do all three.

Normal Trade Again in Eastern Mediterranean

The lifting of the ban against Turkish shipping between the cities of Istanbul, Izmir, and Alexandretta indicates the return of at least some normal trade in the east Mediterranean and Aegean seas.

The reopened route forms a broad loop around the western and southern coasts of Turkey, linking the Black sea with the far northeast corner of the Mediterranean.

From Istanbul (formerly Constantinople) to Izmir (old Smyrna) is a sailing distance of roughly 325 miles. The rest of the journey, along the mountainous, indented southern shore of Turkey, passing north of British-held Cyprus island, involves some 800 additional miles.

Istanbul and Izmir are the two leading ports of Turkey, with a 1940 population of some 768,000 and 184,000 respectively. Although small Alexandretta (Turkish Iskenderun) has only about 14,000 inhabitants, it is the chief outlet of the long disputed territory of Hatay, Alexandretta district.

Istanbul, although shorn of its religious and political leadership in Turkey, still retains its commercial prestige as an international port on the Bosphorus strait between Europe and Asia. Past its door flows, in normal times, a heavy stream of shipping.

Exeter, a Cultural Center
England's ancient city of Exeter has been added to the group of "cultural centers" bombed by the Germans in revenge raids.

Situated approximately 160 air miles southwest of London and 38 from Plymouth, this old cathedral city—combining the bustle of a busy port and manufacturing town, the noise of a market place, and the quiet dignity of a time-mellowed country town—stands on a ridge of land high above the river Exe.

A city looking progressively forward and historically backward, Exeter, with a population of slightly over 60,000, has built its modern paper mills, breweries, and foundries along the river banks and narrow cobbled streets where Romans walked more than 14 centuries ago. Remains of the old Roman wall which surrounded the city still exist. The ruins of Rougemont castle, built in the days of William the Conqueror, stand on the great earthwork thrown up by the Britons to defend the city. One of the oldest municipal buildings in England—the Guildhall—is on High street.

First Published Greeting Card
The first known published greeting card appeared in England in 1842, 100 years ago. In 1942, nearly three billion greeting cards will be sent by Americans, an indication of their growth and present hold on the American public. Statistically, this is more than 20 greeting cards for each individual in the United States during the year.

The greeting card provides a modern way of satisfying age-old needs. It is an expression of man's desire for friendship, kinship and affection. It is a means by which the inarticulate may find a voice for their feelings. Thus it helps to strengthen morale and to preserve the unity of our social structure.

Capt. Charles C. Kegelman, 26-year-old U. S. Army pilot, was awarded the distinguished service cross for his part in the U. S. British air raid on airfields in German-occupied Holland.

New York, July 7 (AP)—Efforts to extend Monday's rally met opposition in today's stock market and leaders generally reverted to mild irregularity.

Cloudier Russian war news brought in a little profit selling on the three-day advance. On the other hand, more cheerful Egyptian bulletins served as a bolstering influence. A slight revival of inflation psychology, it was suggested, might have propped some issues.

The list was a trifle shaky at the start. Encouragement was derived from the dearth of real offerings. Volume was well under that of the previous session. Scattered favorites managed to tack on fractions but minus marks were plentiful near the fourth hour.

Bonds were uneven. Commodities recovered. Stocks up occasionally included Eastman Kodak, United Aircraft, Cerro de Pasco, Pullman and Air Reduction. Among losers most of the time were U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Standard Oil (N. J.), Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Chrysler, du Pont and American Can.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass was up several points in the curb and lesser issues followed. Aluminum was registered for Aluminum of America, American Gas and Gulf Oil. Lasker power were American Cyanamid, Penrod and Humble Oil.

A special announcement from Hitler's headquarters today said the convoy consisted of 38 merchant ships carrying planes, tanks, ammunition and food supplies bound for Archangel with a heavy escort of allied warships.

Stricken with a heart attack at 10:15 o'clock Monday night, James Henry Sutton, 68, of 64 Emerick street, died while being removed to the Kingston Hospital in the Conner ambulance. Coroner Henry Lamoureaux of Saugerties, who had been notified by the police department, issued a verdict of death due to a heart attack.

The police department received a telephone call that a man had fallen on Foxhall avenue, near Stephen street, and an alarm was sent out over the radio which was picked up by Officers Sammons and Van Aken in one of the police radio cars.

When the officers reached the scene they found Mr. Sutton stretched out on the sidewalk, bleeding at the mouth. The officers called the Conner ambulance and had him rushed to the hospital where Dr. Frederic Holcomb pronounced him dead.

It was later learned by the police that Mr. Sutton, a short time before he was stricken, had been in Gallagher's restaurant on Foxhall avenue, at Stephen street, talking with Frank Barth, 41 Gage street. Mr. Sutton had left the restaurant first and was followed shortly afterward by Mr. Barth who saw his friend lying on the sidewalk.

Vessel Is Sunk In Caribbean Sea

Merchantman Is Attacked in Daylight; Crew Is Given Position

(By the Associated Press)
The sinking of another U. S. merchant vessel in the Caribbean, reported by the Navy today put at 110 the unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press of United and neutral nations' merchant ship losses in that area since Pearl Harbor.

The torpedoing and sinking of the merchantman a month ago with the loss of two men of a 31-man crew, brought total sinkings to 341 in the western Atlantic since December 7.

At an east coast port, the Navy reported that the attack on the merchantman occurred in daylight, lasting only seven minutes before the ship was sunk.

The Navy said that one of the ship's two lifeboats was destroyed when the torpedo exploded, but the men launched the remaining boat and two life rafts.

The sub commander and his men, the Navy said, gave the survivors their position and the exact mileage to the nearest land. After talking with the men in the lifeboat and on the rafts, the sub commander ordered his craft in among the floating debris and picked up some of the cases of cargo from the sinking vessel.

The Navy said the survivors reached a Caribbean port in seven days. For five days the lifeboat towed the two rafts, on which there were 16 men, and on the last two days all 29 men crowded into the lifeboat.

With all workers now fully organized and working it is expected that the report this week will find a substantial increase in the total sum which is so vitally needed to give aid to the men in the armed forces of the United States. Shandaken, the first township to reach its quota, is expected to have other company in that column when the reports are received this week. Several of the towns report being near their quotas but the slowness of returns from workers has prevented the making of complete reports. All workers are asked to make an effort to report all funds on hand this week-end.

Albino Natives in Africa

White Negroes and Negresses (albinos) are not uncommon in Africa. Sometimes the albinism is complete, sometimes pie-bald. The skin is, however, pinkish and not white. In former days, before European control, an albino male was executed at the conclusion of peace terms, following warfare. This was at Onitsha in Nigeria, and there is no evidence to show that the practice was common. There is a record that the Bokongo tribe required an albino or some hair from one before they could form a new branch of a secret society. Some writers refer to albinos as being regarded as reincarnations of deceased chiefs. Literature contains references to the matrimonial difficulties of albino males, who are held in disfavor by women. There is an instance of the usual tribal marks, which are incisions in the skin, being denied to an albino.

'Ceiling' Calculator

By throwing a patch of light on a cloud at night it is possible to calculate the height of the "ceiling" over airports, according to the Better Vision Institute. Recently a device has been developed in the United States for use during daylight. A rotating sector disc is placed before a light beam, thereby forming a flashing patch of light on the cloud surface. This patch is invisible to the human eye, but it can be picked up by an "electric eye." This daylight method, it is reported, gives accurate results up to 9,000 feet.

Nazis Slash Russian Armies

nezh and southwest of Stari Oskol, the Russian command said. "Our troops evacuated a number of populated places." Voronezh is 130 miles east of Kursk, the starting-point of the German offensive. Stari Oskol lies 65 miles southwest of Voronezh.

Nazi Divisions Are Fresh

Soviet dispatches said fresh German divisions were moving into the battle and that almost 200,000 Nazi troops were now throwing their weight into the drive, which ultimately could turn either south for a thrust into the great Caucasus oil fields or north for a flanking sweep around Moscow.

Although military experts expected Hitler to strike for the oil treasures of the Caucasus, they did not discount the possibility that he might also be intent on the prize that so bitterly eluded him in 1941—the capture of Moscow.

German communiques recently have stressed action in the Rzhev zone, 120 miles northwest of Moscow, and today Hitler's field headquarters reported:

"In attacks in the Rzhev area, the enemy was thrown from his positions on a broad front."

This may be the start of a northern pincer movement against Moscow, synchronized with the southern sweep through Voronezh, some 300 miles below the Soviet capital.

In claiming the capture of Voronezh, the German high command said that Red army counterattacks were defeated and that a single Nazi panzer division destroyed 61 Soviet tanks.

Russian dispatches, which may have been behind the latest German reports, declared Red army tanks ranging along the east bank of the Don river were throwing back successive waves of Nazis attempting to cross the stream.

These dispatches indicated that the Germans had failed in initial efforts to penetrate the Russian defenses in depth, but acknowledged that the invaders were swarming across in barges and boats at several points under devastating fire.

Casualties Are Heavy

The terrific harvest of casualties was reflected in Russian dispatches declaring that six trains totaling 247 cars, jammed with Nazi wounded, had been seen moving to the rear.

While the Russians battled desperately to stem the gravest threat of the year, Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's British imperial armies sought to develop a westward trend in the 14-day-old battle of Egypt.

A steady stream of troops, tanks and guns was reported moving up to the front, in the El Alamein sector 65 miles west of Alexandria, and dispatches said it was believed that a token force of American tank soldiers was fighting alongside the British.

The American tankists, it was disclosed, had already met and defeated a German panzer force in a baptismal skirmish in the Libyan desert June 12, knocking out at least nine German tanks without suffering casualties themselves.

Dispatches from Cairo said the Americans, who escaped from Tobruk before the Germans captured that British stronghold, were originally scheduled to return to the United States to apply lessons experienced in the desert, but because of the German drive into Egypt they were ordered to remain with the British.

Aerial dogfights and heavy artillery battles marked the critical struggle on the Mediterranean coastal mesa yesterday, it was reported, with big guns rumbling constantly throughout the day and night.

British military quarters described the situation today as "satisfactory," but they said that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, twice hurled back in assaults on El Alamein, was probably receiving reinforcements and that the threat to the Suez and the rich delta lands of the Nile was by no means ended.

With both sides exhausted by six weeks of ceaseless fighting across the blazing sands of the western Sahara, it appeared that the battle had dwindled for the moment. Axis prisoners were quoted as saying that Gen. Rommel's soldiers were dugged with weariness, but the British declared it was too early yet to say whether Gen. Auchinleck's army had the strength to try for a knockout.

Italian headquarters reported only "local encounters" yesterday, while London military quarters said Rommel appeared reluctant to join action.

Sixth Year of War

In the far Pacific theatre, China marked the beginning of her sixth year of bloody struggle against Japan's invasion armies with a renewed plea that the Pacific, instead of Europe, be made the United Nations' "second front."

A Chinese government spokesman declared the United States and China could knock out Japan this year if full American power were thrown into the Pacific conflict.

So far, the spokesman said, "very few" planes are being flown into China to aid Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's beleaguered armies. Meanwhile, a Chinese army spokesman declared Japan had lost 1,000,000 killed and 1,500,000 wounded since the war began on July 7, 1937, as well as 2,504 planes and 29,924 prisoners in 14 major battles and 10,375 minor engagements. The spokesman estimated 900,000 Japanese troops were involved in the China campaign.

In Tokyo, imperial headquarters said only 111,000 Japanese had been killed in China and asserted that Chinese losses exceeded 5,000,000 killed, wounded and missing, including 2,338,000 slain.

U. S. Tanks Score On Axis in Libya

were no battle casualties among the personnel."

Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent with Allied troops, said the American unit saw little fighting on the first day. The following day it was part of a British formation charged with holding a desert ridge between Knightsbridge and Acroma to protect the withdrawal of South African infantry from Gazala area.

About 75 German tanks attacked shortly after dawn. The battle raged all day. The ridge was held. Captain Stelling told Kennedy of the fighting in these words: "We zigzagged about 100 yards each way, just keeping zigzagging and firing at enemy tanks. Our orders were to fire at the enemy tank nearest to us and keep firing at it until we stopped it, then turn our fire on the next nearest tank."

"We opened up with our 75 millimeter gun when they came within 3,000 yards (about a mile and two thirds), using high-explosive shells at first, changing to armor piercing shells when they came nearer. When they came to within 1,200 yards we used our 37 mm. gun, too. They launched three big attacks during the day, but no German tank got nearer than 700 yards to us."

"I don't know exactly how many we knocked out as we did not check them up, but there were at least nine."

He declared there was no question the American medium tank was the best tank in the desert. Major Lodge went to the Libyan front to arrange for temporary inclusion of the American force in a royal tank regiment and to get data for special training in desert warfare. He narrowly escaped being cut off in a German tank raid in the El Adem area.

Lodge has reported his findings to the general staff and plans to give the Senate Military Affairs Committee a detailed report.

State Offices to Close

Washington, July 7 (AP)—In a severe retrenchment to bring its activities into line with reduced appropriations, the National Youth Administration announced today it would close all its state offices. Their functions will be taken over by 11 regional offices. The local administrative units for New York city and the District of Columbia also will be closed. Between 9,000 and 10,000 employees will be dropped, N.Y.A. said.

saluted the Chinese as comrades in arms and in a joint order-of-the-day read to all army and navy forces pledged America's determination to help China "expel the aggressor from every foot of Chinese soil."

In the battle of Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters allied bombers struck again at Tulagi, Japanese-occupied base in the Solomon Islands, while 33 enemy planes raided the allied outpost at Fort Moresby, New Guinea.
